THOKK OF DORNN

His body, his weapons and his code, all HOMEBREW, built from the 2024 rules' own pieces

Who he is, in one line. A white-furred, lion-headed warrior who conquered his whole war-torn world, found peace unbearable, and left to roam the stars looking for someone strong enough to kill him, because a curse fills him with a hunger for battle that only death will end.

Of Dornn

His species: the comic never names it (fans say Dornnian)

Large, 7'6" and about 775 lb (fan databases). Speed 40 ft, 50 with Fast Movement.

Born for war. His Strength and Constitution can reach 30.

Thick hide. With his red-and-gold war harness and no heavier armor, his AC is 13 + Con (19).

Claws and fangs. His Unarmed Strikes can be claws (1d8 slashing) or a bite (1d10 piercing), using Strength. He once bit into Thragg's head.

Hunter's nose. Darkvision 60 ft; Advantage on Perception and Survival checks that use smell, and he tracks by scent.

Like a cat. He takes no damage from falling (he fell from orbit onto Thraxa unhurt), and his jumps go three times as far.

Void-hardened. He survives vacuum and has Resistance to cold. Deep cold freezes him into a stupor, not death: a Coalition ship once found him frozen, drifting in space, alive.

Draskula, the Forever Blade

Legendary (attunement) · his signature sword in the 2025–26 Battle Beast comic

+2 greatsword forged for his size: 4d6 slashing, Heavy, Two-Handed, Graze. It grows back: if Draskula shatters, the blade regrows within the hour. A fair fight: he can throw it to a disarmed opponent he respects, as he did to Conquest; when the fight ends, it finds its way back to him.

The Blood Games Mace

His weapon in the show and the Invincible VS game, a prize from the Blood Games

+1 maul forged for his size: 4d6 bludgeoning, Heavy, Two-Handed, Topple. In the comic he also swings a hammer and an axe; he's a master of nearly any weapon, and his Weapon Mastery covers all four.

Worthy Opponent

What he crossed the galaxy for

When he starts a Rage, he names one creature he can see as worthy. Until the Rage ends, his weapon attacks against it are critical hits on a 19 or 20, and while it's within 30 ft of him it has Disadvantage on attacks against anyone else. He won't let anyone else steal his kill.

No Honor in Killing Insects

Why he walked away from Earth, twice

He doesn't waste himself on the weak. Once he decides a fight is beneath him he simply leaves, unhurt and unimpressed, as he did with the Guardians, Titan and Invincible (#19, S1). The DM decides when that happens; the players won't like it.

A Fair Fight

He cut his own stomach open to match Thragg's wound

Once per fight, when someone else wounds or disarms his worthy opponent, he can even the odds: he takes the same damage himself, or throws it his weapon. If he does, Relentless Rage's DC stops rising for the rest of that fight. That's how he fought Thragg for days.

Glorious Death

The only cure he wants

When his worthy opponent drops him to 0 HP and he doesn't get back up, he makes one last attack as a Reaction before he falls, and thanks them for the fight, as he thanked Thragg just before Thragg crushed his heart.

The Curse

A thirst for violence that endangers everyone he loves

Fighting feeds it, every win leaves him angrier, and only death ends it. For each day he goes without a real fight he gains 1 Exhaustion level; a long rest after a real fight clears them. When he dies, the curse passes to his blood: his daughter has it now (#144).

Ship and Teleporter

How he gets around the Twin Galaxies

A starship he took by killing its crew, flown by an AI, Zoolah, who resents him. On Earth he left through a portal of light (#19) or a wrist teleporter (S1). He can't fly: he leaps.

PLAYING THE CODE

In a fight: name the strongest thing in the room as your worthy opponent and go straight for it. Ignore everyone else unless they hit you; Retaliation is your answer. If the fight turns out to be a mismatch, say so and leave.

When it matters: if someone else wounds your foe, cut yourself and keep going. When a worthy foe finally drops you, swing once more and thank them. Between fights, go looking for the next one, or the curse starts costing Exhaustion.

Ability Score Improvements B8, B12, B16 — +2 Str, +2 Str, +2 Con.

Boon of Irresistible Offense epic, B19 · he wounds what can't be wounded — +1 Str; his bludgeoning, piercing and slashing damage ignores Resistance; on a natural 20 he adds +27 (his Strength score).

Origin. Of Dornn (homebrew species, page 2). Warlord of Dornn (custom background, built like the PHB ones): +2 Str, +1 Con; Savage Attacker; Insight and Intimidation. Barbarian: Athletics and Perception. Primal Knowledge: Survival.

FIGHTING AS BATTLE BEAST

Round one: Persistent Rage refills his uses as Initiative is rolled; a Bonus Action Rages, and Instinctive Pounce carries him 25 ft into reach. He names his worthy opponent (page 2) and attacks recklessly.

Every round: two swings with Advantage. Frenzy (+4d6) on the first hit, Brutal Strike (+2d10 and two effects) on the second. Hew after a critical hit. Retaliation every time he's hit in reach.

The numbers: about 34 a swing with Draskula, about 90 a round with Frenzy and Brutal Strike, and none of it is halved by Resistance (Irresistible Offense).

When it goes badly: Relentless Rage stands him back up at 40 HP. He doesn't retreat. If his opponent isn't at full strength, though, he may leave and come back for a fair fight.

A TURN, BY THE NUMBERS

Bonus Action: Rage, and Instinctive Pounce carries him 25 ft into reach. He names his worthy opponent.

Swing 1, reckless, with Advantage: Draskula 4d6 + 20, plus Frenzy 4d6: about 48.

Swing 2, Brutal Strike: 4d6 + 20 + 2d10 and two effects (knocked 15 ft and staggered, say): about 45.

Total: about 93 if both land, plus a Hew swing on a critical hit, and a Retaliation swing every time he's hit. Resistance halves none of it.

WHO HE IS

Thokk was born on Dornn, a world at war with itself. He fought every rival it had and beat them all until he ruled the whole planet. Then Dornn was united and at peace, and the rage in him had nowhere to go, so he left. He carries a curse: an unquenchable thirst for violence that puts everyone he loves in danger. Fighting feeds it, every win makes him angrier, and only death will end it. So he roams the Twin Galaxies as Battle Beast, looking for someone strong enough to give him that death.

On Earth, hired by Machine Head, he beat the Guardians of the Globe, Invincible and Titan, then left because there was no honor in killing insects. He killed the Colossus of Emsiu, tore through the Blood Games, and fought Conquest to a standstill. Later the Viltrumites caught him; he broke out of their prison alongside Omni-Man and Allen and drifted into space still fighting a guard, until a Coalition ship found him frozen and alive.

In the comic his search ends on Thraxa. When monsters ambushed Thragg and tore his stomach open, Battle Beast killed them, then cut his own stomach open so the fight would be fair. They fought for days. Thragg barely won: Battle Beast thanked him for a worthy fight, and Thragg crushed his heart, then wore his hide as a cape. In the show, he's still out there.

LEGENDARY FEATS

- Conquered his whole world, every rival beaten.
- Beat the Guardians, Invincible and Titan at once, then walked away bored.
- Killed the Colossus of Emsiu and fought on with the Juggernaut's talon through him.
- Fought Conquest to a standstill.
- Killed Viltrumite guards breaking out of their prison.
- Survived space frozen, and a fall from orbit unhurt.
- Fought Thragg for days with his own stomach cut open, and nearly won.

PERSONALITY

Traits: Few words, all of them blunt. Respects strength and nothing else. Eats what he kills.

Ideal: A fair fight against a worthy foe, and a glorious death at the end of one.

Bonds: Allen, who freed him and promised him worthy foes, and gets held to that promise. The daughter who inherits his curse.

Flaw: The curse. He can't stop, he won't stay where it's peaceful, and he'll walk out of a fight that bores him, whoever's counting on him.

APPEARANCE

About 7'6" and 775 lb (fan databases). Snow-white fur, a lion's head and mane, claws and fangs. Red-and-gold armor.

No cape: that's Thragg, wearing Battle Beast's hide. Michael Dorn voices him in the show; Robert Kirkman says he always wrote him like Worf.

THE PEOPLE IN HIS LIFE

Allen the Alien freed him and recruited him for the Coalition; Battle Beast fights for the fighting, not the cause.

Omni-Man, a fellow escapee and war ally.

Invincible, someone he beat and walked away from, later an ally.

Thragg, his perfect opponent, the one who finally gave him his death.

Conquest, the rival who fought him to a draw.

Zoolah, his ship's AI, who hates him.

The latest version. In the show he's alive after season 4 (2026), back fighting Viltrumites at Allen's side; season 5 is in production. His own comic, Invincible Universe: Battle Beast by Kirkman and Ottley, began in May 2025: Draskula, the Conquest fight and his origin on Dornn all come from it. No animated spin-off has been announced.

BUILD NOTES

Barbarian (Berserker) 20 is a life of nothing but battle: Rage that lasts, Frenzy, Retaliation and the fear he puts in people. His alien body and his code are homebrew.

Ability scores: 27-point buy (Str 15, Dex 10, Con 15, Int 10, Wis 13, Cha 8), then the background, Great Weapon Master, three ASIs, the Boon and Primal Champion.

Power note: about 34 a swing and 90-odd a round, none of it halved by Resistance. He's built to go toe to toe with Viltrumites.

WHAT 5E CAN'T COPY

- Fights that last days.
- How strong a Viltrumite really is: at level 20, Battle Beast is the top of the scale.

Researched from Wikipedia, Image, Skybound, CBR, Dexerto, Den of Geek, AIPT, SlashFilm and episode transcripts. Not his: the "worthy opponent, our battle will be legendary" line is Tai Lung's, from Kung Fu Panda, and he never fights Omni-Man. Unverified: his species' name, his height and weight, and any regeneration (none is shown).
