Alexander Anderson

Human (Regenerator) · Paladin (Oath of Vengeance) 20 · Acolyte · Iscariot Section XIII's Paladin, the Bayonet, the Judas Priest

Built on the 2024 rules, canon-first, from Hellsing (the manga) and Hellsing Ultimate. The title Iscariot gave him is the class: a Paladin, and an Oath of Vengeance because the vow is the man. The Vatican's surgery is the species. The bayonets are blessed and endless, the pages are a wall and a door, and Helena's Nail is the thing he should never have used.

Design calls. Paladin 20 because every feature on the list is already him: Divine Sense is smelling a vampire across a city, Radiant Strikes and Divine Smite are blessed steel that burns the unholy, Turn Undead is a wall of scripture, the Oath spells are the swirl of pages he leaves in (Misty Step, Dimension Door), the speed nobody can follow (Haste), the pinned enemy (Hold Monster), and the Vow of Enmity is Alucard. Charisma is a preacher's voice; the Aura is the faith of the children behind him. The Regenerator is a body feature, set the way Smasher's frame and Guy's Gates are: Strength, Dexterity and Constitution past a human's, and 30 hit points back at the top of every turn. The capstone is replaced: no wings. He has the Nail instead, and the Nail is a death.

Snapshot: the Ninth Crusade in London, level 20 (Paladin 20)

Father Alexander Anderson

Medium Humanoid (Human, a Regenerator), fifties · the black cassock and the grey coat, the glasses, the gloves with crosses, more bayonets than a coat can hold, a Bible, and the Nail · "Amen."

AC 17 (the lined cassock as studded leather), 19 under Shield of Faith · HP 284 (Tough), and Regeneration 30 at the start of every turn · Speed 60 ft (Boon of Speed) · Initiative +11 (Alert) · Proficiency +6 · Spell save DC 18, spell attack +10

| STR | DEX | CON | INT | WIS | CHA |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 20 (+5) | 20 (+5) | 22 (+6) | 8 (−1) | 14 (+2) | 18 (+4) |

Saves with the Aura of Protection (+4): Str +9, Dex +9, Con +10, Int +3, Wis +12, Cha +14; immune to being Frightened (Aura of Courage) · Skills Religion +11 (expertise, a priest), Athletics +11, Insight +8, Intimidation +10, Perception +8, Medicine +8 · Languages Common (English, in Scots), Latin, Italian, German · Divine Sense at will: every undead and fiend within 60 ft, through walls

The Regenerator (species feature; the Vatican made him). Strength 20, Dexterity 20, Constitution 22. At the start of each of his turns he regains 30 hit points. Reduced to 0, he does not die and makes no death saves: at the start of his next turn he stands at 30 hit points, unless he took 20 or more radiant or fire damage since his last turn, in which case nothing regrows this turn and he stays down. Only three things kill him: a single blow for his full hit points, his heart torn out (a creature that has him grappled and at 0 can spend an action and win a Strength contest), or the Nail (below). Alucard's Jackal was built to do the first; Alucard's hand did the second.

Attacks. Blessed bayonet: +11, 1d6+5 piercing, Finesse, Light, thrown 30/90, and he has as many as he needs; against undead and fiends, +2d6 radiant, and the wound does not close. Two attacks per Attack action and a third from Nick; a fourth under Haste. Radiant Strikes: +1d8 radiant on every hit. Divine Smite (bonus action, once a turn): +2d8 radiant, +1d8 per spell level above 1st, +1d8 more against undead and fiends. Bayonet Storm (action): a fan of bayonets in a 30-ft cone, Dex DC 19, 6d6 piercing and, to undead and fiends, 2d6 radiant; half on a save. Soul of Vengeance: after his sworn enemy hits or misses him, a bayonet in reply as a reaction.

Scripture. Wall of Pages (Channel Divinity): a 30-ft wall of scripture rises: undead and fiends cannot pass it or see through it, and one that touches it takes 4d8 radiant; anything else cuts through in a round (AC 10, 30 HP). Sealing Pages: the same as a 10-ft cage around one undead or fiend, Cha save DC 18 or Restrained inside it. The pages as a door: Misty Step and Dimension Door, always prepared, and when he leaves a room it is in a storm of paper.

Spells (Cha; slots 4/3/3/3/2): Bless, Shield of Faith, Protection from Evil and Good, Heroism; Hold Person, Magic Weapon, Misty Step, Zone of Truth; Haste, Dispel Magic, Protection from Energy, Revivify; Banishment, Dimension Door, Freedom of Movement; Hold Monster, Destructive Wave (a blast of holy pages: 5d6 thunder and 5d6 radiant in 30 ft), Scrying. Channel Divinity ×3: Vow of Enmity (bonus action, advantage against one creature for a minute: the vampire in the room), Divine Sense, the Wall. Lay on Hands 100 HP (the orphans, not himself). Restoring Touch, Relentless Avenger (after a hit on his reaction, half his speed free).

Feats Alert, Magic Initiate (Cleric: Guidance, Sacred Flame, Bless), War Caster, +2 Charisma, Tough, Boon of Speed · Weapon Masteries bayonet as dagger (Nick), scimitar (Nick), longsword (Sap)

Helena's Nail: the Monster of God (action; once, ever). He drives the Nail into his own heart. Until the Nail leaves him: he is Large and made of thorned vine; Regeneration 60; resistance to bludgeoning, piercing and slashing; immunity to necrotic and poison; his bayonets become thorn vines, +11, 2d8+5 piercing and radiant, reach 15 ft, three a turn, and a hit can grapple (escape DC 19); Holy Thorns: every enemy that starts its turn within 10 ft of him takes 2d8 radiant, 4d8 if undead or fiend, and the thorns grow through anything they kill; and he is not Alexander Anderson any more. He cannot be killed while the Nail is in him. Reduced to 0, he lies open: a creature within 5 ft can tear the Nail out as an action with a DC 25 Strength check, or any 40 damage before his next turn breaks it. Then he dies, human, and asks to be remembered as one.

How he fights. Vow of Enmity on the strongest thing in the room, Haste, and bayonets: three a turn, four under Haste, a smite on the first that lands, and a bayonet back in the face of whatever hits him. Hold Monster on anything whose will is weaker than its body. He does not dodge. He takes the hit, loses the arm, grows the arm, and keeps walking. The Wall for the unholy, the Storm for a crowd, the pages when it is time to go. The Nail is for a god, and he knows what it costs, and he uses it anyway.

Why these numbers

- Regeneration 30, back at 30. In Badrick, Alucard puts a .454 Casull through his skull and he stands up a few seconds later; Alucard then cuts him to ribbons and he walks away. Thirty a turn is a troll's regeneration tripled, and the stand-up with no death saves is the scene. The radiant and fire clause is the Jackal: a gun built, in the story, to kill a Regenerator, firing blessed exploding shells; in 5e that is a damage type that stops the regrowth for a turn, and the only way an ordinary fighter ever ends him is to keep that pressure up until the heart.
- The bayonets. He throws a dozen at a time and never runs out; in 5e that is a dagger that is always in his hand, Nick for the third throw, and a cone for the fan. The +2d6 against undead is why a vampire with a thousand lives bleeds from them and a human does not.
- The pages. The wall that Alucard cannot cross and the cage he once sealed a vampire in are Channel Divinity, which is the Paladin's own resource for exactly this; the vanish is Misty Step. None of it needs a new system.
- The Nail. Regeneration 60, thorns that burn everything within ten feet, and the grapple that pierced Alucard's heart. It is not sized to the arena; it is sized to a creature with Level 0 released, which is the only thing he ever used it on. The exit clause (0 hit points, the Nail torn out, 40 damage breaks it) is the manga: Seras's shadow and Alucard's hand.

Build, level by level

Point buy 12 / 14 / 14 / 8 / 12 / 13, Acolyte +2 Cha, +1 Wis; the Regenerator then sets Strength 20, Dexterity 20 and Constitution 22, so the feats go to Charisma and Wisdom. His history before Iscariot is thin in the manga; the early levels follow what it gives.

| Lvl | Class | What you get | Where in the story |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Paladin 1 | Lay on Hands, Divine Sense, Weapon Mastery; Alert, Magic Initiate (Cleric) | A priest in Rome with a Scots accent and an orphanage |
| 2 | Paladin 2 | Fighting Style: Two-Weapon Fighting, Divine Smite | Iscariot Section XIII takes him |
| 3 | Paladin 3 | Oath of Vengeance: Vow of Enmity, Channel Divinity (the Wall) | The first vampire; the first wall of pages |
| 4 | Paladin 4 | War Caster (+1 Cha → 16) | The Vatican's surgery: a Regenerator (Str 20, Dex 20, Con 22) |
| 5 | Paladin 5 | Extra Attack, Faithful Steed | “Bayonet Anderson”; Heinkel and Yumie |
| 6 | Paladin 6 | Aura of Protection | Iscariot's Paladin, its top man |

| Lvl | Class | What you get | Where in the story |
|---|---|---|---|
| 7 | Paladin 7 | Relentless Avenger | Vampires across Europe; none of them a fight |
| 8 | Paladin 8 | Alert is origin; here: Skill Expert (+1 Cha → 17; Religion) | The orphanage. The children |
| 9 | Paladin 9 | 3rd-level spells: Haste, Protection from Energy | Badrick, Northern Ireland: Alucard and Seras |
| 10 | Paladin 10 | Aura of Courage | Alucard's head on the floor, and a bullet through his own |
| 11 | Paladin 11 | Radiant Strikes | The museum: Integra, Maxwell, and Alucard across the hall |
| 12 | Paladin 12 | +2 Charisma (19) · here +1 Cha, +1 Wis | The Valentine brothers' raid on Hellsing; Iscariot watches |
| 13 | Paladin 13 | 4th-level spells: Banishment, Dimension Door | Millennium's zeppelins over London |
| 14 | Paladin 14 | Restoring Touch | The Ninth Crusade lands; Maxwell's war |
| 15 | Paladin 15 | Soul of Vengeance | Through the Crusade and the ghouls, toward the one he came for |
| 16 | Paladin 16 | Tough | Alucard releases Level 0: a river of the dead |
| 17 | Paladin 17 | 5th-level spells: Hold Monster, Destructive Wave | Through the river: bayonets, walls and pages |
| 18 | Paladin 18 | Aura Expansion | Maxwell's barrier broken by his own hand |
| 19 | Paladin 19 | Boon of Speed (+1 Wis → 14) | Alucard, and the duel a human could not win |
| 20 | Paladin 20 | The Monster of God (replaces Avenging Angel) | The Nail. Thorns through a god's heart. A hand through his. Human again, and dust. |

Snapshots by arc, with the feat checked

Iscariot's Paladin

before the manga · the priest, the surgery, the years of vampires · Levels 1–8 · Paladin 1–8

Str 20, Dex 20, Con 22 from level 4 · AC 17 · HP up to 128 · bayonets +9, three a turn from level 5 · Divine Smite · Regeneration 30 · Aura of Protection

The feat, checked. A vampire is a CR 13 with Regeneration 20 and a weakness to radiant; a level-6 Anderson throws three blessed bayonets a turn for 1d6+5 plus 2d6 radiant each and a 3d8 smite, and nothing it does to him stays done. The manga says he never lost one. The sheet says that is the correct result of 130 damage a round against a thing with 144 hit points that cannot close a holy wound.

Badrick

Hellsing Ultimate I · Alucard and Seras in a hospital · Levels 9–10 · Paladin 9–10

HP 150 · Haste · Aura of Courage · Vow of Enmity on Alucard

The feat, checked. Alucard is a CR 30 vampire with lives to spend and Regeneration 50. Anderson pins him with a fan of bayonets (Dex DC 18, and Alucard does not dodge), takes the head off with a Vow of Enmity crit, and Alucard puts a .454 Casull through his skull: a crit for 60-odd, and a Regenerator at 150 hit points stands up at the start of his next turn. The cuts that follow, dozens of them, never reach 20 radiant in a round, so nothing stops the regrowth. The fight ends because Integra arrives and Maxwell calls him home: two walls of pages and a storm of paper, which is Channel Divinity and Misty Step. Neither of them could kill the other, and the sheet agrees.

London

Hellsing Ultimate VII–VIII · the Ninth Crusade, Level 0, the river of the dead · Levels 13–19 · Paladin 13–19

HP up to 270 · Banishment, Hold Monster, Destructive Wave · Soul of Vengeance · Radiant Strikes · Tough

The feat, checked. Alucard's familiars are thousands of undead between CR 1 and CR 10, and he walks through them. Bayonet Storm is 6d6+2d6 radiant to everything in a cone, Destructive Wave is 5d6 radiant in thirty feet, the Wall of Pages makes them wait their turn, and Radiant Strikes means every bayonet he throws is a wound that does not heal. He breaks Maxwell's barrier with one bayonet (an object with AC 15 and 30 hit points) and lets the crusade die for being a crusade. Then he reaches the one he came for.

The Nail

Hellsing Ultimate VIII · Alucard at Level 0, and then a human · Level 20 · Paladin 20

The headline block, and then the Monster of God: Regeneration 60, thorns, reach, the grapple

The feat, checked. Alucard with Level 0 released is a CR 35 with every life he has ever taken; as a man, Anderson cannot win, and the sheet knows it: 74 a round against a thing with thousands of hit points and Regeneration 50 is a draw that lasts until he is tired. So the Nail. Holy Thorns burn 4d8 radiant a turn into every undead within ten feet, which is the familiars dying by the hundred; the thorn vines reach fifteen feet and grapple, which is the one that goes through Alucard's heart. He cannot be killed with the Nail in him. Then Seras's shadow pins him, Alucard's hand goes through his chest, and the Nail comes out at DC 25 against a Strength of 30. He dies as what he wanted to be, and asks to be remembered as it.

A DM's dial

Everything is sized to the manga. For a table: Regeneration 15 instead of 30, and the stand-up from 0 once per long rest instead of every time; the Nail as a once-a-campaign event with the DM's hand on the exit clause. That is still Anderson. This one is the one Alucard respected.