Saves: Str, Con and Wis (Resilient). Weakness: he depends on the Jet Sword; without it he's a tired old man with good footwork (page 2).

ATTACKS

ATTACK	HIT / DC	DAMAGE	NOTES
Jet Sword HB	+14	1d8+10 slashing + 2d6 fire	A +3 katana (Finesse, Versatile) with a jet in the blunt end. Three per Attack action; the blue flame adds 2d6 fire on every hit. Vex: a hit gives Advantage on his next attack against that target.
Jet Lunge HB	+14	as the Jet Sword	Bonus Action: the jet throws him up to 30 ft in a straight line without provoking, into one more cut.
Sneak Attack	—	+4d6	Once a turn on a hit with Advantage. Assassinate: in the first round, Advantage against anyone who hasn't acted, and 7 more damage.
Maneuvers	DC 19	+1d10	Lunging Attack and Evasive Footwork ride the jet; Precision Attack, Riposte, Parry, Feinting Attack, Disarming Attack.
Shuriken ×10	+11	1d4+5 piercing	Darts, thrown 20/60, Vex. Sneak Attack works.
Without the sword	+6	1 bludgeoning	An Unarmed Strike. He's weapon dependent, and he knows it.

Extra Attack (three). Action Surge once a short rest. Cunning Action (Dash, Disengage, Hide). Cunning Strike: trade Sneak Attack dice for Trip, Withdraw or Poison. Studied Attacks. His code: a creature he drops is knocked out, not killed.

THE JET SWORD · THE ARM · THE CODE

All HOMEBREW: the weapon he made and regrets, the arm Pulse cost him, and the line he won't cross

The wiki is blunt about him: no superhuman abilities, a normal man, dependent on his sword. Everything that makes him a champion is skill, precision and one weapon. So the sheet puts his power in two places: a level-20 fighter-ninja, and the Jet Sword.

THE JET SWORD

Legendary katana (Finesse, Versatile 1d8/1d10, mastery Vex), +3. Nobody knows what it's made of. He forged it himself, and it has always protected him and destroyed whatever it touched.

The blue flame. A jet engine sits in the blunt end of the blade. On every hit the ignition drives the edge through: +2d6 fire, like a Flame Tongue that never goes out.

Jet Lunge. Bonus Action: the jet throws him up to 30 ft in a straight line without provoking Opportunity Attacks, and he makes one Jet Sword attack at the end of it. His Lunging Attack and Evasive Footwork maneuvers are the same flame, used to reach and to dodge.

His regret. He hates what the sword can do. The stories disagree on what he's looking for: someone strong enough to break the blade, the hammer that forged it, or the means to make another. Nobody knows which.

WEAPON DEPENDENT

Without the Jet Sword he loses the +3, the flame, the lunge and his best maneuvers, and he fights with a 1-damage Unarmed Strike. Disarming him (or taking the sword, as one animator did) is the way to beat him. His footwork, Evasion and Uncanny Dodge stay.

THE BIONIC ARM

He lost his right arm against Pulse and wears a gray bionic one now. It hasn't slowed him down. HB It doesn't tire, and he has Advantage on checks and saves against being disarmed.

THE CODE

He doesn't kill. From his fight with Đ on, he refuses lethal finishers unless he has no other choice. When he drops a creature to 0 HP with a melee attack, he knocks it out instead. He keeps his emotions locked down, and he rarely shows anything in a fight.

HOW HE FIGHTS

Round one: he's almost always first (Alert, Assassinate). Three cuts with Advantage against a foe that hasn't moved, Sneak Attack with 7 extra on the first, the flame on all of them; then Action Surge for three more, and a Jet Lunge for one last cut. In RHG that's how fights end in fourteen seconds.

After that: Vex keeps the Advantage rolling from cut to cut, so Sneak Attack lands every turn. Parry what a +6 can stop, Riposte what misses, Uncanny Dodge what's too big, and a superiority die turns a near miss into a hit.

FACING HIM

Make it long. He has 217 HP, AC 17 and no way back from 0. The flame stops a regenerating body from growing back, but it can't kill one. Big hitters, armor that halves blades, and anything that takes his sword away all beat him. His one Reaction a round has three jobs, so swarm it.

The Jet Sword

Weapon (katana: Martial, Finesse, Versatile 1d8/1d10, Vex), legendary, requires attunement · homebrew

Edge	+3 to attack and damage rolls.
Blue flame	A hit deals an extra 2d6 fire damage. The flame lights the blunt end, not the blade, so it never goes out and never needs a Bonus Action.
Jet Lunge	Bonus Action: fly up to 30 ft in a straight line without provoking Opportunity Attacks, then make one attack with the sword.
Unknown alloy	Nothing in RHG has broken it. Whether anything can is the DM's call, and the center of his story.

A DM's dial, tested in the Sheet Arena. As written he wins 26% of his fights, level with Arthur Morgan. A plain katana with the flame once a turn and no lunge: 13%, and he beats almost nobody but Goblin Slayer and Spike. The +3 alone: 16%. Add the Jet Lunge: 20%. The flame on every hit is what puts him past Jin and Arthur.

ROCK HARD GLADIATORS

RHG was a stick-figure animation tournament that grew out of the FluidAnims forums and later ShiftLimits, and lives on today in the Hyun's Dojo community and on YouTube. Each animator created a fighter, a Rock Hard Gladiator, and animated duels against other animators' fighters. A close duel could go to a poll, and a duel that missed its due date went to the other side by default. FLLFFL, by Terkoiz, took first place in the FluidAnims-era tournament, which is how he got the nickname Alfa. He started out as plain "fL" (Alpha) and became FLLFFL around 2009. He's been in the clans C.U.T. and, later, VELOX. The fans made him RHG's unofficial mascot: the first character anyone thinks of when RHG comes up.

HIS RECORD — 10 WINS, 7 LOSSES (THE RHG WIKI)

OPPONENT	RESULT	NOTE
SYNTHe	loss	a poll; his first fight, 14 seconds long
Benman	win	so fast it's replayed
Slice	win	default
Drifts	win
Gel	win
The French	loss	disintegrated
Terantula	win	then a hospital visit
Steel	win
Yoyo	loss	a real one; then friends
Murph	loss	due date
Ð	win	default; the code starts here
Thunder	win	default
Chuck	loss	unfinished
Pulse	win	cost him his right arm
Caasix (speed battle)	win
Umbrella	loss	default; impaled on screen
Wrench	loss	unofficial

Unofficial or unfinished: Jomm, Andre, Andre and Ryknow, Mr. Pix, RoL, Ken-X; Tchau cancelled.

Most of his losses are paperwork: polls, defaults and due dates. Yoyo is one of the few who beat him for real.

THE FAMOUS ONES

Yoyo vs FLLFFL. A teenager with an explosive yo-yo goads him into a fight by insulting his sword. FLLFFL pins him to a wall, and Yoyo still wins. Afterward they're friends, and FLLFFL tells him he'll be a great fighter.

Umbrella vs FLLFFL. Umbrella's weapon is a sword, shield, gun and jetpack in one, and he kills FLLFFL with it. Then his memory comes back, and he says he never wanted it to happen.

FLLFFL vs Pulse. He wins, and it costs him his right arm.

DEAD, SEVERAL TIMES

RHG barely has continuity, and Terkoiz stopped animating RHGs, so other animators have killed him more than once: hit by a train against Mr. Pix, disintegrated by the French, impaled by Umbrella. One trailer for Fatal Art has him survive Umbrella, only for Yupia to kill him on the spot.

Then again, he puts Terantula in the hospital and visits him there, and he walks off into the sunset with Chuck before Chuck beats him up. Losing to him tends to end in friendship.

RUNNING AN RHG DUEL AT THE TABLE

Two fighters, one arena, no help. RHG duels are one on one, and most of them are short. Start at 30 ft and let initiative decide who gets the first move. Against FLLFFL that's usually him.

The poll. After the fight, the table votes for the most stylish moment. That player gets Heroic Inspiration, even if their fighter lost. RHG decided close ones this way, and it's why his first loss came from a fourteen-second fight he won on screen.

The due date. Give the duel a real-time limit. A player who stalls past it loses by default. That's how half his record was decided.

The friendship rule. Losers he knocks out wake up to a visit. If your table runs a league, the fighters he beats become his contacts: Yoyo, Terantula, Chuck.

GEAR

Ten shuriken (darts) and a light gi (studded leather).

The gray bionic right arm.

Smith's and Tinker's Tools to keep the blade and its engine running, and nothing else he talks about.

PLAYING HIM IN A PARTY

Guard the sword. Everything he does runs through it. Disarming Attack, a rust monster or a well-aimed Disarm takes him from champion to bystander, and his bionic arm's Advantage against that is the only thing standing between him and a bad day.

The code costs the party. He knocks out, he doesn't kill, and he won't finish a downed enemy unless there's truly no choice. Prisoners, rescues and grudges follow him.

He opens fights. Alert plus Assassinate means he usually moves first, with Advantage on everything that hasn't acted. Let him take the first round, then cover his one Reaction: Parry, Riposte and Uncanny Dodge all want it.

LEVEL BY LEVEL

RHG never told his life story; his bio calls his past "eluded" on purpose. So this table says what each level stands for, and pins the few dated moments the wiki gives.

WHAT'S RHG'S AND WHAT'S THE SHEET'S

RHG's: his look, age and name; the Jet Sword and its blue flame; no powers and the dependence on the sword; the code; the arm; the ninjutsu; his record and fights. The sheet's: every number, the class split, the +3, the flame's 2d6, Jet Lunge, and which level each fight sits at.

The fights on the levels are placed for the story, not dated

WHO HE IS

Nobody really knows. His bio gives him a hidden name, a mysterious purpose and a past it calls "eluded," and that's deliberate: the name in his insignia only looks like an A. What everyone does know is the sword. He made it, nobody knows from what, and it has protected him and destroyed everyone else for longer than he'd like. Some say he's looking for someone strong enough to break it. Others say he's looking for the hammer that forged it, or a way to make another.

In the meantime he fights, and he's very good at it: first place in the FluidAnims-era Rock Hard Gladiators tournament, the fighter the whole community associates with RHG, and an idol to younger fighters like Gildedguy. He's late-middle-aged, no superhuman, and he lost an arm along the way. He still doesn't kill anybody.

PERSONALITY

Traits: Calm, controlled, unreadable in a fight. Rarely shows what he feels, except when you insult the sword.

Ideal: Never kill. He'll beat you, then visit you in the hospital.

Bonds: The Jet Sword, and the guilt that comes with it. The fighters he beat and befriended.

Flaws: He can't fight without the sword. And he hates what it is.

APPEARANCE

A tall, lime-green stick figure in his late middle age, sometimes drawn with wrinkles. The Jet Sword is always in his hand, and its blue flame burns at the blunt end when he moves.

His right arm is gray and bionic, since Pulse. One animator, Endo, drew him with fangs and a long black tongue in "Chuck vs Alfa." Most don't.

THE PEOPLE IN HIS FIGHTS

Terkoiz, his creator and animator.

Yoyo (Hyun's), the teenager with the explosive yo-yo who beat him for real and became his friend.

Umbrella (Resh's), the ex-mercenary whose umbrella is a sword, shield, gun and jetpack, and who killed him.

Chuck (Endo's), the nunchaku fighter he walked off into the sunset with, briefly.

Pulse, who cost him his right arm and still lost.

Terantula, beaten badly, then visited in the hospital.

Gildedguy, who looks up to him.

Mr. Pix, the French, Yupia: the fighters who've killed him in other animators' takes.

BUILD NOTES

Fighter (Battle Master) 13 is the swordsman and the jet bursts; Rogue (Assassin) 7 is the ninja and the fights that end before they start. Ability scores: 27-point buy (Str 10, Dex 15, Con 14, Int 10, Wis 14, Cha 8), then Gladiator, two ASIs, Speedy, Resilient and Defensive Duelist.

Power note: in the Sheet Arena he wins about a quarter of his fights (17th of 20, level with Arthur). He beats Spike and Goblin Slayer every time, Itachi nearly every time, Arthur three times in four and Jin more often than not. He loses to Musashi, Talion, Wolf and Kingsley, and to every superhuman on the ladder. Against Anderson the flame keeps him from regrowing, and it's mostly a 40-round draw.

WHAT 5E CAN'T COPY

- Stick-fight speed. RHG fights are a blur of jets, flips and cuts in seconds. Here it's Alert, Action Surge and the lunge.
- Continuity. He has died three different ways in other people's animations. The sheet is the living one.
- The mystery. His past is blank on purpose. Leave it blank.

Built from the RHG wiki (his bio, weapon, weaknesses and record) and TV Tropes' Rock Hard Gladiators character page. RHG never gives game numbers: the +3, the flame's 2d6, Jet Lunge and the class split are the sheet's.
